Bring it Home Challenge Almost Met

Thanks to the outpouring of donations from the Tri-Valley community, we have almost met the Bring it Home Challenge, which is equally sponsored by Lynn and Joan Seppala and Don and Sharon Ritchey. The additional $340,000 will fund support services, equipment, a multidisciplinary stroke clinic, training and education, and much more. ValleyCare Speaker Series at the Bankhead

During January's ValleyCare Speaker Series program at the Bankhead Theater, Dr. Marion Buckwalter will discuss our understanding of a stroke's effects on the brain. Dr. Buckwalter has worked as an ICU neurologist at Stanford, caring for stroke patients and serving as a co-investigator on over 50 clinical stroke studies. Drawing on her decades of experience, she will discuss her research on neuroinflammation, stroke recovery, and review of ongoing studies. Learn more and purchase your tickets here.

VCCF Team's Gingerbread House

Even though we didn't win the Stanford Health Care – ValleyCare employee contest, our team had fun collaborating on our 100%-edible entry, complete with a very large donation to support the Hospital!

Meet Roz Gamble

For over 20 years, Roz has volunteered at our local hospital. She is part of a dedicated group of volunteers, whose hard work, time, and efforts provide compassion to patients and families. The Hospital has been an essential part of her life, where both family and friends have been patients. She knows the importance of having excellent care close to home. To learn more about what inspires Roz to give her time, talent, and treasure, click here.
